THINGS THAT NEVER DIE

The timid hand arteched forth to aic.
A brother in his need.
The kindly word in grief's dark hour.
That proves a friend indeed:
The plea of mercy softly brathed.
When justice threatened high.
The sorrow of a contrict heart.
These things can never die.

The cruel and the bitter word,
That wounded as it fell:
The chilling want of sympathy
We feel but mover tell:
The hard requise that chills the heart
Whose hopes were bounding high,
In an unfading record kept—
Those things shall never die.

THE SILVER BOAT. The room was hushed and the moonlight f In broken bands on the garret floor; So damp and cold—the shadow of death Had fallen three hours before.

Had tailen three hours better.

Oh! she was the child of his old age, And she lay in his arms a-dying; The night wind crept up the narrow at But fled through the window sighting Her yellow hair fell in sheaves of gold, Her breathing was hurried and low, Her mother had died a night like this, Just seven long years age, Just seven long years age, Just seven long years age.

Day by day, with a terrible love,
A love that was unavailing.
He had watched the light in her ble
Steadily, hopelessly paling.
